Within the scope of the exhibition, "architecture without architecture" is presented in various ways. The exhibition space is divided into three sections: the "architecture without architecture" section, the "architecture without architecture and architecture" section, and the "architecture without architecture architecture" section. Each section presents a different perspective on the relationship between architecture and art. The exhibition space is designed as a network of interconnected spaces, with each section having its own unique architectural form. The viewer is invited to explore the spaces, engage with the artworks, and consider the implications of the exhibition's title.
